

National Sandwich Week

Paul and Michelle of Mustard Seeds Catering have been chosen to appear  on BBC Radio Kent this week, to help celebrate the 'National Sandwich Week'. Paul says "We are honoured to be able to represent the Medway Towns and pay tribute to the Earl of Sandwich's invention. What a benefit it has been to the fast living lifestyle we subject ourselves to. If it wasn't for the good old British sandwich, we would be missing out on an essential part of our staple diet. Sandwiches don't need to be boring these days, our customers love our 'grape and brie', 'stilton and pear' and 'coronation chicken with iceberg lettuce' to name but a few, in fact we have invented a special Radio Kent Coronation Chicken sandwich which will be available for customers for the next two weeks". Julie Maddocks and producer Steve McCormick will be visiting Mustard Seeds on 15th May for Paul to judge 'a radio presenter's skill on the chopping board', these will be judged by Paul of Mustard Seeds and Andy of BBC Radio Kent. The team will be taking samples back to the radio station to judge Paul's culinary delights. Tune in this Friday afternoon to find out how they all get on. more information and photos at www.mustardseeds.co.uk
